

Flying is no longer the luxury it once was, and in general, travelers and flight staff are not particularly considerate of their fellow travelers or customers. I have noticed a real lack of civility. I am afraid that to open up the cabin of a aircraft to cell phone use would be worse than being surrounded by 1,000 crying screaming babies. Please, please, please do not allow passengers to use their cell phones.